This is a question we get asked quite often. What is that and how does it work? This little miracle is called side blinds and they work in such a way that when a side door is opened, the driver and passengers are not able to see into any neighbouring vehicles, making the passengers feel safe. Side blinds operate by using a special device that operates some of the interior lights of the vehicle, usually on both the driver and passenger's side. When a side door is opened, the side blinds are automatically switched off, leaving the other side of the vehicle almost completely dark. Similar to side-blinds, there is another little wonder called side airbags that are installed on the side doors. The side airbags are mounted on the inside of the door and are covered when the door is closed. When a door is opened, the inside airbags are released and they rest inside the door. The outside airbag is activated and it inflates when it hits the body of the front passenger or driver. Side airbags are not installed on all of the models and they are available only on some models where safety is an issue. On other models with the same interior design, side airbags are not available due to space restrictions. In such cases, side-blinds are a great alternative. Side-blinds and side airbags are a great comfort to any driver that travels in a large
