This release features the following new features: 2.1 NEW FEATURES The Ribbon UI has been implemented in full-screen mode with the Multi-Document Interface (MDI) mode. This changes the ribbon toolbar to be at the top of the screen as well as hiding the vertical toolbars when MDI is enabled. In addition, the old and new UI skins have been merged into a single UI skin that contains both versions. The MDI mode has also been introduced into the Mtext editor. The Paths tool has been updated to support the Python scripting language. You can use Python to automate tasks that were previously performed using macros. Constant Width and Proportional Width have been deprecated and renamed to WidthProportional and WidthConstant, respectively. This change is required for consistent printing in mixed-dpi printing environments. The new fonts are available

Mutations in the TMEM16A gene are the most common cause of autosomal recessive non-syndromic hearing loss (NSHL) in non-consanguineous, European families. Up to now, 10 different mutations have been identified in the TMEM16A gene. In this study we describe the first Iranian family with NSHL. Twelve individuals were included in the study. In the pedigrees, hearing loss was unilateral and bilateral. Molecular analysis was performed for the TMEM16A gene. Amplification of exons 2-11 of the TMEM16A gene was performed by using long range polymerase chain reaction (PCR). Direct sequencing of the PCR products was performed using an ABI Prism 310 Genetic Analyzer (PE Applied Biosystems, USA). The proband had bilateral sensorineural hearing loss (SNHL) with no other clinical features. The first symptom of hearing loss in the proband was observed at the age of six years. The mean hearing loss was 30 dB bilaterally. Siblings had a milder phenotype with an average hearing loss of 22 dB and 13 dB, respectively. Our results indicated that a novel variant in exon 9 of the TMEM16A gene, c.982G>A (p.W328STOP), was found in the proband, which was not identified in any of her family members. Our findings suggest that the novel mutation may be associated with deafness. A good point made about the 'Finch' series of typefaces and its impact on type, in general, is this: I had never thought about a typeface that hasn't been designed for a specific purpose, let alone one that is the world's most popular, public domain, typeface. You get the gist of the argument, if you're not familiar with the series. The English typeface. While you're at it, here's a clip of the trailer: And here are some more images: So, you can expect to see these type ca3bfb1094

The media noted that the "country which once led the world in science and technology has been left behind." The U.S. Senate Intelligence Committee has issued a bipartisan report calling for the restoration of funding for the United States Institute of Peace (USIP) in response to a global outbreak of deadly Ebola in West Africa. The committee's report—issued on the same day as a bipartisan Congressional Research Service report on Ebola was released—calls for the federal government to increase funding to support USIP's work in conflict zones, and in conflict zones. In September, the committee requested a "briefing on U.S. programs in support of international efforts to stop the spread of Ebola." Senator Susan Collins (R-ME), ranking member of the committee, said, "Congress must address the need for more funding for USIP, which has already become the go-to agency for improving international peace and security." In the Senate Committee's briefing, the organization explained that its work is focused in the four conflict zones that received the highest number of casualties, including: Democratic Republic of Congo, Eastern Congo, Libya and South Sudan. "USIP's programs are in all four countries, where peace and security can't wait. With USIP's ability to effectively coordinate with and mobilize a wide array of actors around the world to improve security and stabilize areas in conflict, the Institute helps provide critical help to countries trying to address conflict and international security issues," the briefing stated. USIP has worked in four conflict zones in the last four years to enhance communication among countries and mitigate the spread of violence. The agency often works closely with the U.S. State Department and U.S. Agency for International Development, and has implemented training programs in numerous conflict-prone regions.

What's New In?

Add or edit your dimensions and profiles in your drawings quickly. A new Dimensions dialog window opens when you enter the dimensions tab in the Edit dimension mode (video: 1:33 min.) New and improved MDI frame: Create MDI frames that are perfectly aligned to the screen by specifying screen coordinate values for width, height, or distance between frames. Enhanced frame drawing and editing: Incorporate polylines into the frames of your MDI frames and MDI "studies". Synchronize dimension values, style, linetype, etc., across multiple drawings. Draw easy-to-see frame-roof borders and frame-wall edges. Import Frame Border and Frame Wall markers from other files and quickly draw frames with only a few clicks. Keep your users' frames, dimensions, and other custom information synchronized when they are moved between drawings. (video: 1:25 min.) The new View tab has been added to the MDI workspace. The features in this new tab include: Show line patterns of vertical and horizontal lines Show markers for frame-roof and frame-wall borders Show frame and grid origin Polar graph display: Edit planar polygons and circles as if you were on the 2D plane they represent (e.g., by extruding, slicing, etc.) Add and subtract points from an existing polygon or circle. Add, subtract, and move multipoint objects to a polygon or circle. Rotate polygon and circle faces in 3D space. Configure the polygons and circles for rotation in the workspaces. Projecting shadows: Draw shadowed faces on objects that have associated grid lines. Use projected shadows in 3D drawing. Supports the "Preview Shadow" feature of the 3D Properties dialog box. Choose from three levels of shading for projected shadows (by face, line, or grid). Share and export drawing data: Save drawings to GEOGEOGRAPHIC data that is supported by all GEOGEOGRAPHIC programs. Support both ODB and XMI data types. Group your exportable drawings (e.g., by filename). Save and load drawings in the cloud with the Web App. Compatible with the newest collaborative tools
