HD Online Player (the Sims 4 Incest Mod) ~REPACK~

while it seems unlikely that the glitch will be fixed in the near future, the community is taking matters into its own hands. mods that make sims go on dates with each other have been created to try and create a workaround for the glitch. currently, players are testing some mods that allow them to have their sims go on dates with their family members. the mods are not final, and are only being tested on a sims household with a toddler sim. players have been trying to get the company to retract this decision since the decision was announced, and they've had a lot of success, but ea has remained steadfast in its decision. players have also attempted to petition the company to reverse course, and continue permitting creators to profit from their work. a sims 4 update has been released on august 2, and it brings with it a number of major changes and tweaks. one of the more notable changes is a major shift in the way simlish works, and it's something that will likely take some time to get used to. ea has announced that the august 2 update will be free to all players of the sims 4 for pc. this is a hugely positive and important development for the game, and has been met with a mixed response. some people are happy, but others are not. players of the sims 4 have always been allowed to mod their game to create entirely new experiences. however, with the introduction of the high school years pack, the company has made a slight change to this policy. while it is still possible to modify the game's core mechanics, it is no longer possible to modify the way that sims speak and behave. this has caused a significant amount of outrage and dissent among the sims 4 players. the issue has also been picked up by the media, and many publications are speaking out against ea's decision.

HD Online Player (the Sims 4 Incest Mod)

in addition to addressing the simulation bug, a new update has also been released to improve the free-to-play business model. in this respect, ea says it has made a change to the free-to-play model in an attempt to improve the experience for players. this change will affect the way the game operates in the background. essentially, it will make it less likely that players will be “banned” from the game by ea for spending money in-game, for example by purchasing extra content. consequently, players will not be able to access custom content, such as sims' homes, drive-through restaurants and expanded careers. here's what ea say in a new statement, community feedback has been a crucial component of the sims 4 for years, and we know many of you are eager to know more about the changes to the in-game economy. we want to make it easier for you to purchase additional content, and will continue to listen to feedback from you and our community. “sims 4” producer jeff bennett, who made the announcement, added that ea will make it easier to access the game’s custom content, which includes the ability to build a custom home, drive-through restaurant and more. what this means for players is that they will be able to purchase any items and use any skills that they have earned through gameplay. “when we first announced the changes to the payment model, we stated that we would only be adding them to the free-to-play version, and we wanted to make sure we had a clear, simple process for players,” said bennett. “we are excited to hear that players are looking forward to the changes and we can’t wait to hear what you think of them.” 5ec8ef588b
